1:00-3:30pm

"American Graffiti" was a personal film for its director George Lucas, about his days in his home town of Modesto, CA in 1962 when life revolved around Crusin', picking up girls and coming of age after High School graduation. It became one of the most profitable films of all time making over 55 million dollars (300 million in today's dollars) from a budget of $775,000.

Learn about these interesting facts and many more from the movie guy as we talk about "American Graffiti" starring Ron Howard, Richard Dreyfus, and Harrison Ford and then show the movie.
